Previously at the University of Manchester

Research Director, Centre for Chinese Studies, University of Manchester (2005-10); in this post I played an important part in setting up this interdisciplinary cross-school centre for teaching and research (including a successful 4-year UG degree and a 1-year MA degree). This included hiring academic staff, including the Director of CCS, and designing curricula for the interdisciplinary BA and MA degrees.

The main achievement was winning a major research grant from the ESRC to fund the 5-year research centre that joins Manchester, Oxford and Bristol universities: British Inter-university China Centre. BICC funded 2 postdoctoral fellows who became permanent lecturers at the end of the grant, and 2 fixed-term postdoctoral fellows. It also funded MA and PhD students, including 3 PhD students in the Politics Department. It included hiring and line-managing administrative staff. BICC Phase 2 funds PhD and postdoctoral placements in the FCO, Chatham House, and other NGOs and think tanks.

Politics Department Seminar, Organiser (2011-12) I recruited 12 staff members to give five minute summaries of their current research. The Politics Department at Manchester is large (45-50 full-time faculty), hence the purpose of the 5-minute seminar was to 1) share information with colleagues about research interests, and 2) foster collaborative research projects.

University of Manchester Annual Peace Lecture, Host (2012), I invited Prof. Cécile Fabre (Oxford), who spoke about the ethics of post-war occupation.

External examiner for the BA and MA programs in Politics and International Studies at the University of Leeds (2002-05)

Subject Review Specialist, Quality Assurance Agency (UK), for review of Politics
Departments in 2000-01
